1. Introduction

1.1 Our school's policy on relationship and sex education is based on the DfES document 'Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) and Health Education' (DfE 25/06/2019). We recognise 'Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education' as the policy's full title, but, for brevity's sake, we will refer in the rest of this policy simply to 'RSE'. Within this policy the term RSE is to be read as: Relationships Education and Relationships, Sex Education and health education.

1.2 In the DfE document, RSE puts 'in place the key building blocks of healthy, respectful relationships, focusing on family and friendships, in all contexts, including online. This will sit alongside the essential understanding of how to be healthy.'

1.3 RSE is part of the personal, social and health education curriculum in our school, which we refer to as PSHE. When we inform our pupils through sex education about sexual issues, we do this with regard to morality and individual responsibility, and in a way that allows children to ask and explore moral questions. We do not use sex education as a means of promoting any form of sexual orientation.

2. Aims

The aims of relationships, sex education and health education (RSE) at our school are to:

- Provide a framework in which sensitive discussions can take place
- Prepare pupils for puberty, and give them an understanding of sexual development and the importance of health and hygiene
- Help pupils develop feelings of self-respect, confidence and empathy
- Create a positive culture around issues of sexuality and relationships
- Teach pupils the correct vocabulary to describe themselves and their bodies
- Create a culture of respect for other people's view

3. Context

3.1 As a primary academy school we must provide relationship education to all pupils as per section 34 of the Children and Social Work Act 2017. As a school we are required to teach Science which would include elements of sex education contained within the curriculum. At East Tilbury Primary school we also teach sex education through our PSHE curriculum (as outlined in section 7 of this policy).

3.2 We teach about RSE in the context of the school's aims and values. While sex education in our school means that we give children information about sexual behaviour, we do this with an awareness of the moral code, and of the values which underpin all our work. We teach sex education on the understanding that:

- it is taught in the context of committed relationships and family life;
- it is part of a wider process of social, personal, spiritual and moral education;
- children should be taught to have respect for their own bodies;
- children should learn about their responsibilities to others, and be aware of the consequences of sexual activity;
- it is important to build positive relationships with others, involving trust and respect;
- Children need to learn the importance of self-control.

- Children understand the need to live a healthy lifestyle and how this can be achieved

4. Policy development

This policy has been developed in consultation with staff, pupils, governors and parents. The consultation and policy development process involved the following steps:

1. Review – a working group (including staff and governors) pulled together all relevant information including relevant national and local guidance
2. Staff consultation – all school staff were given the opportunity to look at the policy and make recommendations
3. Parent/stakeholder consultation – parents and any interested parties were invited to attend a meeting about the policy
4. Pupil consultation – we investigated what exactly pupils want from their RSE
5. Ratification – once amendments were made, the policy was shared with governors and ratified

5. Definition

At East Tilbury Primary we define RSE as being about the emotional, social and cultural development of pupils, and involves learning about relationships, sexual health, sexuality, healthy lifestyles, diversity and personal identity. RSE involves a combination of sharing information, and exploring issues and values. RSE is not about the promotion of sexual activity.

6. The National Healthy School Standard

6.1 We now participate in the National Healthy School Standard scheme, which promotes health education. As participants in this scheme, we:

- consult with parents and carers on all matters of health education policy;
- train all our teachers to teach about sex;
- listen to the views of the children in our school regarding sex education;
- look positively at any local initiatives that support us in providing the best sex education programme that we can devise.

7. Organisation

7.1 Under the new DFE guidance for RSE, it is a statutory requirement for pupils to have Relationship Education. Elements of the Sex Education curriculum which are part of science lessons remain statutory. Such lessons relate to the teaching of the human body and how it develops. Stand-alone Sex Education lessons will be taught to pupils but parents/careers have the right to withdraw their child from this aspect of Sex Education (more information regarding this in section 8).

7.2 We teach RSE through different aspects of the school curriculum. While we carry out the main RSE teaching through our personal, social and health education (PSHE) curriculum, we also teach elements of sex education through other subject areas (e.g. science and PE), which will teach children about the biological aspects of their own bodies and how they changing and developing.

7.3 (Refer to Appendix 1) Relationships education focuses on teaching the fundamental building blocks and characteristics of positive relationships including:

- Families and people who care for me
- Caring relationships
- Respectful relationships
- Online Relationships
- Being safe

7.4 In PSHE, we teach children about relationships, and we encourage children to discuss issues. We teach about the parts of the body, and how these work, and we explain to the children what will happen to their bodies during puberty. For example, we teach the children that boys' voices will change during puberty, and we explain menstruation to both boys and girls. We encourage the children to ask for help if they need it.

7.5 In science lessons, teachers inform children about puberty and how a baby is born. For this aspect of our teaching, we follow the guidance material in the national scheme of work for science. In Key Stage 1, we teach children about how animals, including humans, move, feed, grow and reproduce, and we also teach them about the main parts of the body. Children learn to appreciate the fact that people are not all the same, and that we need to respect each other. In Key Stage 2, we teach about life processes, and the main stages of the human life cycle, in greater depth.

7.6 In Years 5 and 6, we place a particular emphasis on health education, as many children experience puberty at this age. Teachers do their best to answer all questions with sensitivity and care. By the end of Key Stage 2, we ensure that both boys and girls know how babies are born, how children's bodies change during puberty, what menstruation is, and how it affects women. We always teach this with due regard for the emotional development of the children.

7.7 We give the opportunity for all parents and carers of children in Years 5 and 6 to discuss this particular programme of lessons, to explain what the issues are, and how they are taught, and to see the materials the school uses in its teaching.

7.8 As part of our PSHE Assemblies we will use the term 'no outsiders' as a way to foster a nurturing culture of mutual respects for each other regardless of our race, religion, ethnicity or family background.

8 The role of parents and carers

8.1 The school affirms that the primary role in children's RSE lies with parents and carers. We therefore wish to build a positive and supporting relationship with the parents and carers of children at our school, through mutual understanding, trust and cooperation. To promote this objective, we:

- inform parents and carers about the school's RSE policy and practice;
- answer any questions that parents or carers may have about the RSE of their child;

- take seriously any issue that parents or carers raise with teachers or governors about this policy, or about the arrangements for RSE in the school;
- encourage parents and carers to be involved in reviewing the school policy, and making modifications to it as necessary (see section 4);
- inform parents and carers about the best practice known with regard to RSE, so that the teaching in school supports the key messages that parents and carers give to children at home.
- Workshops or resources will be made available prior to Sex Education lessons so that parents and carers will be able to see the content which will be shown to their child

We believe that through this mutual exchange of knowledge and information, children will benefit from being given consistent messages about their changing bodies and their increasing responsibilities to look after themselves and form positive relationships with others.

8.2 Parents and carers have the right to withdraw their child from all or part of the sex education programme that we teach in our school. If a parent wishes their child to be withdrawn from sex education lessons, they should discuss this with the Head of School, and make it clear which aspects of the programme they do not wish their child to participate in. The school always complies with the wishes of parents/carers in this regard. Parents and carers will receive notice via a letter prior to any sex education lessons being taught and access to the teaching materials will be made available in good time prior to the delivery of the lessons. The teaching of relationship education and scientific teaching regarding the human body (as taught in the science curriculum) is statutory.

9 The role of other members of the community

9.1 We encourage other valued members of the community to work with us to provide advice and support to the children with regard to RSE. In particular, members of the Local Health Authority, such as the school nurse and other health professionals, give us valuable support with our sex education programme.

10 Confidentiality

10.1 Teachers conduct RSE lessons in a sensitive manner, and in confidence. However, if a child makes a reference to being involved (or being likely to be involved) in sexual activity, then the teacher will take the reference seriously, and deal with it as a matter of child protection. Teachers will respond in a similar way if a child indicates that they may have been a victim of abuse (whether physical or online). They will not try to investigate, but will immediately inform the named Designated Safeguarding Lead about their concerns. The Head of School will then deal with the matter in consultation with health care professionals (see also our policy on Child Protection).

11 The role of the Head of School

11.1 It is the responsibility of the Head of School to ensure that both staff and parents/carers are informed about our RSE policy, and that the policy is implemented effectively. It is also the Head of School's responsibility to ensure that members of staff are given sufficient training, so that they can teach about RSE effectively, and handle any difficult issues with sensitivity.

11.2 The Head of School liaises with external agencies regarding the school's RSE programme, and ensures that all adults who work with our children on these issues are aware of the school policy, and work within its framework.

11.3 The Head of School monitors this policy on a regular basis, and reports to governors, when requested, on the effectiveness of the policy.

12 Monitoring and review

12.1 The safeguarding governor monitors the impact of our RSE policy on an annual basis. The governor reports their findings and recommendations to the full local governing body, as necessary, if the policy needs modification. The LGB gives serious consideration to any comments from parents and carers about the RSE programme, and makes a record of all such comments. Governors require the Head of School to keep a written record, giving details of the content and delivery of our RSE programme.

12.2 This policy will be reviewed every three years, or earlier if necessary.

Appendix 1: By the end of primary school pupils should know

TOPIC	PUPILS SHOULD KNOW
Families and people who care about me	That families are important for children growing up because they can give love, security and stability The characteristics of healthy family life, commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives That others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care That stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up That marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong How to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed
Caring friendships	How important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends The characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties That healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded That most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right How to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed
Respectful relationships	The importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs Practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships The conventions of courtesy and manners The importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness That in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority About different types of bullying (including cyberbullying), the impact of bullying, responsibilities of bystanders (primarily reporting bullying to an adult) and how to get help What a stereotype is, and how stereotypes can be unfair, negative or destructive The importance of permission-seeking and giving in relationships with friends, peers and adults

Online relationships	That people sometimes behave differently online, including by pretending to be someone they are not That the same principles apply to online relationships as to face-to face relationships, including the importance of respect for others online including when we are anonymous The rules and principles for keeping safe online, how to recognise risks, harmful content and contact, and how to report them How to critically consider their online friendships and sources of information including awareness of the risks associated with people they have never met How information and data is shared and used online
Being safe	What sorts of boundaries are appropriate in friendships with peers and others (including in a digital context) About the concept of privacy and the implications of it for both children and adults; including that it is not always right to keep secrets if they relate to being safe That each person's body belongs to them, and the differences between appropriate and inappropriate or unsafe physical, and other, contact How to respond safely and appropriately to adults they may encounter (in all contexts, including online) whom they do not know How to recognise and report feelings of being unsafe or feeling bad about any adult How to ask for advice or help for themselves or others, and to keep trying until they are heard How to report concerns or abuse, and the vocabulary and confidence needed to do so Where to get advice e.g. family, school and/or other sources

Physical Health and mental Wellbeing
